

2017-2018
ANNUAL REPORT

 Planned Parenthood®

More than ever before, Planned Parenthood is putting the tools people need to live healthy lives directly into their hands. Whether they are getting sexual and reproductive health information from PlannedParenthood.org, booking an appointment on their phone, or marching to defend their rights – Planned Parenthood is providing them the care, information, and resources they need to take control of their health and their future.

With so much at stake, we are joining hands and working together toward our mission: Care. No matter what.

Message From Our Leadership

After 102 years, Planned Parenthood's mission remains the same: to provide care, no matter what. Last year, our more than 600 health centers provided that care – which includes birth control, cancer screenings, STI testing and treatment, safe and legal abortion, and so much more – to 2.4 million people across the country.

As we start a new year we face a new reality, full of new challenges and opportunities.

After 12 years with Cecile Richards at the helm, we welcome a new president to Planned Parenthood. As an emergency doctor, public health leader, and the first physician to serve as Planned Parenthood's president in half a century, Dr. Leana Wen brings fresh perspective and new ideas to our legacy of care, education, and advocacy.

We know her vision is in line with what the American people want: more health care, not less.

As Dr. Wen begins her tenure at Planned Parenthood, so does a new class of leaders in state legislatures, governor's offices, and the U.S. House of Representatives. They are the most diverse class of leaders this country has ever seen, and they share our vision for a world where all people can get the care they need.

That vision is challenged daily, as we face an administration that continues to chip away at access to care – gutting protections for birth control coverage, pushing a rule to gag providers in the nation's family planning program, and more.

A new U.S. Supreme Court also presents a grave threat to access to health care. Despite mass mobilization against his nomination, his record of ruling against health care (including access to abortion), and accusations of sexual assault against him, Justice Brett Kavanaugh now has a seat on the highest court in the land. He is positioned to cast the deciding vote on any of more than a dozen cases that could determine the future of abortion access for generations.

There are battles ahead. But Planned Parenthood and our 12 million supporters will never stop tearing down the barriers to care for the people we serve. We will continue building a world where all people have access to Care. No matter what.

NAOMI ABERLY

Board Chair
Planned Parenthood Federation of America

Since joining Planned Parenthood in November, I have been inspired on a daily basis by the dedication, passion, and kindness of the Planned Parenthood family. It is a profound honor and privilege to lead Planned Parenthood at this critical juncture in our history. As we head into a new year, we look forward to furthering our mission and seizing the many opportunities that lie ahead.

First and foremost, Planned Parenthood will continue to provide the gold standard of health care and education to all people, no matter what. Our North Star is serving our patients. But it's not enough to provide care to our patients, if they cannot access that care. That's why we will fight with everything we have to protect health care access, because too often reproductive health care and women's health care are singled out, stigmatized, and attacked. Planned Parenthood's work – bringing affordable and accessible health care to as many women (and men and all people) as possible – isn't just the right thing to do. It's the urgent thing to do.

As we provide and protect, we add a third pillar: to expand. Despite the challenges ahead, we will move boldly forward and expand our reach, our services, and our impact. With more of our supporters in positions to effect change, we are no longer simply playing defense – we're going on the offensive. We will work with our champions in Congress and state elected leaders to enact laws that protect and expand access to reproductive care. There is a huge unmet need for the people we serve. But we've got fundamental truth on our side: that your body is your own. If it's not, you cannot be truly free or equal.

Through all our work, we will continue to assert what we know to be true: Planned Parenthood services – from birth control to cancer screenings to abortion – are standard medical care. Reproductive health care is health care. Women's health care is health care. And health care is a fundamental human right.

Planned Parenthood's doors are open today and they will be open tomorrow. Just as they have been for more than 102 years. This moment offers us countless opportunities to build a healthier, more equitable world. At Planned Parenthood, we have never been more ready to make that world a reality.

Health Within Reach

For 102 years, Planned Parenthood has been committed to providing care, no matter what. We find a way to get care and information to the people who need it most – going over, under, and through barriers to get there. Now more than ever, we're innovating to put tools for a healthy life directly into people's hands. No matter who they are, what they need, or where they live.

Expanding Access to Expert Care

As the country's leading provider of sexual and reproductive health care, Planned Parenthood is proud of our work to push the field forward, by expanding access to the care patients need and conducting pioneering research to improve access and outcomes.

- Medication abortion available in 357 health centers
- Hormone therapy for transgender patients is available in 21 states
- Participated in more than 75 research studies and published 28 articles in peer-reviewed journals, including innovative research showing that patients who learn how to self-administer the birth control shot (Depo) are more likely to continue to use it.
- Engaged patients in a Planned Parenthood Research Advisory Panel to integrate patients as advisors on our research. Already, over 600 individuals from 29 states have raised their hands to help us improve our research. Our work this year cements Planned Parenthood's role as a leader in reproductive health research.

The Nairobi headquarters will help Planned Parenthood Global establish a larger footprint in both regions where it works, as we face unprecedented attacks on sexual and reproductive health and rights around the world.

Highlight from Latin America: IDEA Forum

In November 2017, the Latin America Regional Office held the inaugural IDEA Forum, a conference that gathered creatives, tech agencies, new media, and investment funds from the region to brainstorm solutions to increase access to health and expand reproductive rights in Latin America. The participants represented the vanguard of an emerging movement that promotes innovation in reproductive health and rights.

Planned Parenthood Global awarded seed funds to five stand-out participants doing groundbreaking work in strategic marketing, technological innovation, and digital journalism. La Decisión de Sara (Sara's Decision), one of the prizewinners, has already launched an interactive comic that illustrates the powerful story of a young girl named Sara and the decisions she must make after experiencing sexual abuse by a family member.

Highlight from Africa: 'Voices for Health' Win

In May 2018, in a major win for civil society organizations, the Ugandan government's Ministry of Education and Sports launched the National Sexuality Education Framework, effectively repealing its 2016 parliamentary ban on comprehensive sexual and reproductive health education. For the nearly two-year lifetime of the ban, young people in Uganda were denied access to critical information to protect themselves and keep their bodies healthy and safe. Voices for Health, a coalition of Planned Parenthood partners committed to advancing sexual and reproductive health work in the country, joined other civil society organizations in calling for a repeal.

Holding On & Pushing Forward

This was the second year of a hostile administration and Congress in Washington – but the 102nd year of Planned Parenthood’s fight to build a world of equality and opportunity for all. There are still great challenges ahead, and every day the people who rely on Planned Parenthood face attacks on their families, their health, and their dignity. But Planned Parenthood’s 12 million supporters are stronger than ever, ready to defend our hard-won rights and press forward into the future, together.

Meet Peshka

Peshka Calloway is a veteran and mom from West Virginia, and a member of the inaugural National Speaker Bureau.

Peshka first came to Planned Parenthood after her concerns about a lump in her breast were dismissed by doctors for years. Hearing her family history of breast cancer, Planned Parenthood staff in Vienna, West Virginia jumped into action. They set her up to get a mammogram and genetic testing. Since then, she has been to Planned Parenthood for other health care. Since then, Peshka has become a rockstar advocate for Planned Parenthood. During the 2017 fight to protect access to care at Planned Parenthood and the Affordable Care Act, she traveled to Washington, D.C. multiple times to share her story with her senator, a key vote. She joined the inaugural National Speaker Bureau, where she helped to build a nationwide community of patient storytellers and organizers to share ideas and support each other's work on the ground.

Peshka shared her story on national TV during an event with progressive elected leaders. She has spoken at press events, in front of Planned Parenthood staff and partners from across the country, and been featured in TV and online ads.

Now, Peshka is building the organizing capacity of her community by planning campaigns to raise awareness of the need for health care for the trans community in West Virginia, for menstrual equity, and for comprehensive sex education.

"I was so moved that I sat in my car and cried when I left the office. I fought for my country, and it was so humbling for Planned Parenthood and the people who support it to make sure I was taken care of when I needed it the most. They understood that I was a vet, struggling with PTSD, anxiety and depression. They were there for me."

Fighting Back

Planned Parenthood supporters were a key part of the fight against the Trump administration’s efforts in 2017 to repeal the Affordable Care Act and block patients who rely on Medicaid from going to Planned Parenthood for care. The massive outcry defeated three separate bills, and Planned Parenthood organizations and supporters generated:

- 3,000 events nationwide
- 350,000 phone calls to Congress
- 1.5 million petition signatures
- 3,000 media clips, 300 letters to the editor, 50 op-eds

After the Trump administration dismantled the Affordable Care Act’s protections for birth control by giving employers wide latitude to decide what kind of birth control their employees would be able to access, Planned Parenthood supporters jumped into action, gathering 528,000 comments – an enormous volume for an administrative rule.

Last year the Trump administration proposed a gag rule that would prevent health care providers in the Title X program – the nation’s program for affordable birth control and other reproductive health care – from giving their patients full information about abortion. Planned Parenthood’s efforts to fight back resulted in:

- 87 on-the-ground Title X events, engaging hundreds of supporters
- Submitted nearly 500,000 comments
- 15 governors issued strong statements opposing the gag rule
- Every major medical association denounced the gag rule

In the Courts

The courts are a key front in the fight to protect access to reproductive health care. Last year, Planned Parenthood affiliates (along with partner organizations, in some cases), supported by PPFA's Litigation and Law team, filed nine new lawsuits trying to block efforts by states to restrict access to care, bringing the number of active cases to more than 30 – the largest docket in Planned Parenthood history. These include a challenge to the most restrictive law in the country, Iowa's ban on abortion as early as 6 weeks – before most women know they're pregnant – and to targeted regulation of abortion providers (TRAP laws) in Maine, Missouri, and Virginia.

In addition, last year Planned Parenthood filed multiple lawsuits to stop the Trump administration from dramatically changing important, effective federal programs, including the Teen Pregnancy Prevention Program (TPPP) and Title X, the nation's only program for affordable birth control and preventive care. These changes would have gutted programs that Planned Parenthood patients – and millions more across the country – rely on to get the care and information they need. In the TPPP case, we successfully stopped the administration from ending programs two years earlier than planned, ensuring young people continue to have access to the best evidence-based programs.

Fighting Forward in the States

For the first time in over a decade, states enacted more policies that expand access to reproductive health than policies to restrict access. Planned Parenthood organizations across the country mobilized for these policy wins, including:

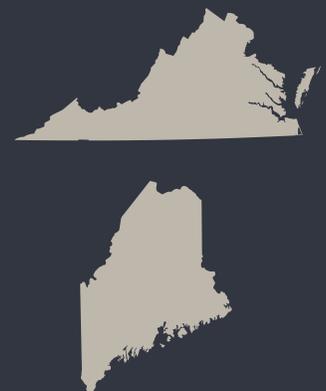

A law requiring all insurers to cover abortions if they cover maternity care in Washington.

Laws requiring sex education curricula include instruction on consent

12-month birth control laws in Connecticut, Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Washington, D.C.

Expansion of Medicaid in Virginia and Maine

Many Hands, One Movement

As Planned Parenthood and the people we serve faced continuous attacks, our partners from across movements stood hand-in-hand with us to fight back.

Planned Parenthood patients and supporters need access to health care. They also need their families to stay together. They need to feel safe in their workplace, on their campus, and on the street, without fear of sexual assault and harassment. They need to be free to build the lives they want – no matter their race, their faith, their gender identity, their sexual orientation, or their immigration status.

Every day, we're fighting for that future. Together.

Standing with Immigrant Families

In September 2017, the Trump administration ended the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) program, threatening the safety and future of 800,000 people and their families. Planned Parenthood mobilized our supporters to participate in actions in Washington and across the country to demand a Dream Act that would protect immigrant youth and their families.

When the administration announced they would add a question about citizenship to the upcoming U.S. Census, we collected 4,884 comments in opposition to an action that would harm the health of millions, including many in the Planned Parenthood family.

Last June, when the world learned of the administration's policy to separate children and parents in immigration detention centers, Planned Parenthood affiliates across the country and in Washington, DC, mobilized supporters to join "Keep Families Together" marches. Planned Parenthood continues to support the goal of keeping all families together, safe, healthy, and out of detention.

Linking Arms and Pushing Forward

In the midst of the #MeToo movement and a national conversation about sexual assault, we partnered with Bumble, Grindr, Hornet, and OkCupid to help them build a culture of consent and respect on their platforms, creating and sharing social media and editorial content to educate users on why and how to practice consent.

Planned Parenthood organizations and affiliates across the country supported the March For Our Lives, mobilizing hundreds of supporters to attend events organized by youth activists who are demanding gun violence prevention measures be taken to protect their communities.

Bringing New Partners into the Movement

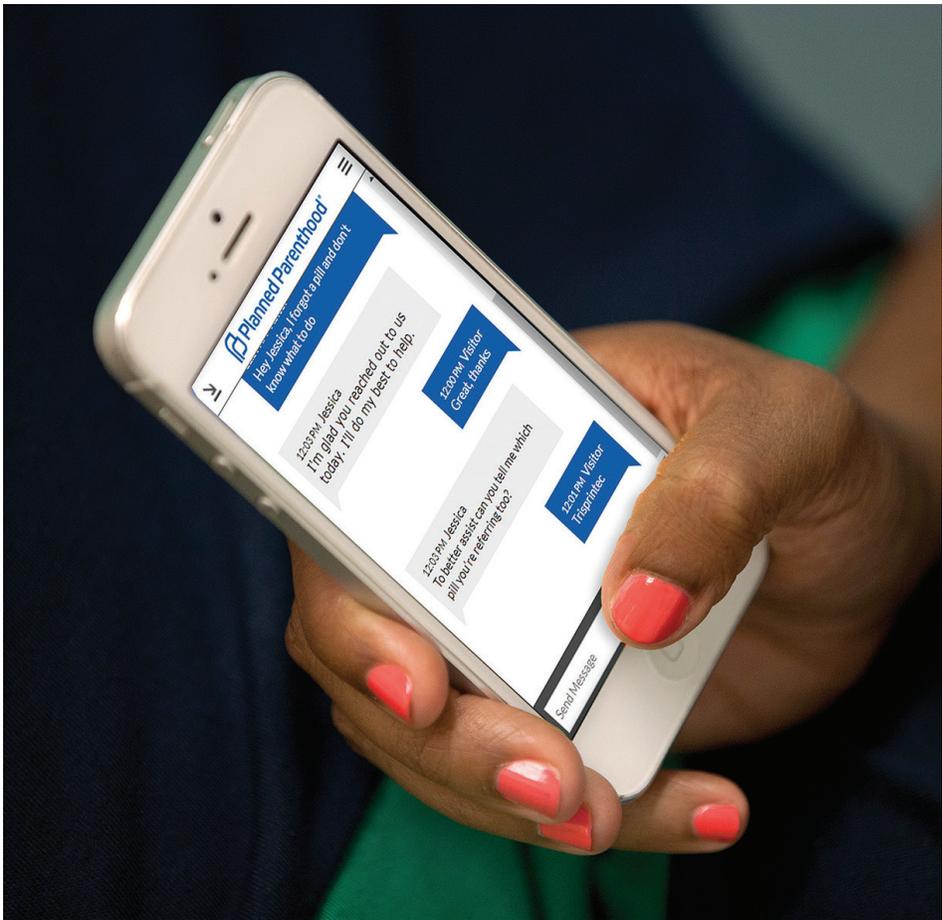

Planned Parenthood was selected as a national WNBA partner for the Take a Seat, Take A Stand campaign, with rallies at games, fundraising through ticket sales, support on legislative fights from the league’s president, and coverage in sports, women’s, and other media.

The matchmaking app OkCupid created an #IStandWithPP Badge to appear on the profiles of users who support Planned Parenthood. Over 400,000 users adopted the badge, users with the badge got four times more matches than those without, and OkCupid’s posts about the partnership earned their highest Instagram engagement to date. This partnership earned the 2018 Halo Award for Best Social Media Campaign and the 2018 Shorty Award, Gold Distinction, for a Social Good Campaign.

Then-president Cecile Richards gave the closing keynote at the annual Business for Social Responsibility conference, joining executives from Morgan Stanley, Microsoft and many others.

Planned Parenthood Global, Inc., is a tax-exempt supporting organization corporation under Internal Revenue Code sections 501(c)(3) and 509(a)(3) that oversees the global programs of PPFA.

The IRS classifies the Planned Parenthood Action Fund as a section 501(c)(4) tax-exempt organization. Contributions are not tax deductible. Many Planned Parenthood affiliates operate ancillary organizations with the same tax status.

A list of all organizations that received contributions from PPFA during the year that ended June 30, 2018, may be obtained by writing to PPFA, 123 William Street, New York, NY 10038. Audited financial statements are available on the PPFA website.

[a] National organization figures reflect operations of Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc., Planned Parenthood Action Fund, Inc. (including its related organizations, the Planned Parenthood Federal PAC, Planned Parenthood Votes, Community Outreach Group, LLC and Cancer Survivors Network for Planned Parenthood, LLC), and Planned Parenthood Global, Inc. for the year ended June 30, 2018. Affiliate figures reflect the operations of 56 Planned Parenthood affiliates and are based on amounts reported in affiliate audited financial statements for fiscal years ended during 2017.

[b] Payments and receipts between affiliates and the national organization have been eliminated. These include dues and contribution-sharing arrangements and other grants. Related adjustments have been made to the balance sheet.

[c] The report groups revenue by source (either government or non-government) rather than the manner of disbursement (income versus grants and contracts). Payments from Medicaid managed care plans are listed as "Government Health Services Reimbursements & Grants" to reflect the ultimate source of the funds.

[d] Includes foundation grants, corporate contributions, and support from over 1,500,000 active individual contributors. This also includes $52.7 million of bequests.

[e] Expenses do not include capitalized expenditures for property, plant, and equipment and repayment of related loans, but do include depreciation and amortization of such property, plant, and equipment and interest expense on such loans.
